NYTimes 17 Nov 72

Notes on People byline, James F. Clarity

Alink Hogan's He- picked up the baton to lead, briefly, the Detroit Symphony the other night. The younger Klemperer won a number of bravos for his work on the Symphony in D minor by César Franck.

●

A Federal appeals court in New Orleans took under advisement arguments that the Government owes Mrs. Marina N. Oswald Porter $500,000 for its confiscation of property of her late husband, Lee Harvey Oswald, after the assassination of President oJhn F. Kennedy. The property, Mrs. Porter alleged, included Oswald's diary and other documents that were published as part of the Warren Commission Report on the assassination. In the court action, the widow said Lee Harvey Oswald was "neither an assassin, a murderer, a criminal, nor wrongdoer of any kind."

●

In Paris, Julien Green became the first non-French member of the prestigious French Academy. The 72-